It is not an “Ornament” but “Part of your family” created fastidiously as if it is alive

As represented by Polar Bear, a life-size “Animals as Art”, we have been involved in numerous animal modeling.

We re-create animals meticulously by thinking about how to make it realistic and, of course, by understanding its body make-up from every aspect.

Attention to the materials

In order to re-create as close as possible the actual dog, materials to be used are carefully chosen for each body part including fur, skin and eyeballs. For the skin a silicon (our original mixture) material is used.
We have been thorough in selecting the best material thought possible.
For example, for the fur a material used for special modeled objects in Hollywood movies was specially ordered.

Attention to the fur

When you touch an animal, especially its fur, doesn't that give you that real sensation of “Life”.

At Clone Wanko, we painstakingly re-create real dogs by mixing numerous fur materials. You will be able to experience “Life” not only from its shape but from the whole body fur which looks real.

Attention to detail

We pay attention to detail to get as close as possible to the real thing.
With the fur we look at how the hair grows in each body part and t ransplant hair by hand, one strand at a time, right through to the details of the face, ear, paws and legs.
Furthermore, even with the color of the skin which you cannot normally see hidden beneath the fur, it is painted.

Attention to Safety

Safety consideration is a must to have you spend time in your home together.
Silicon used for the skin is a very safe material used in medical equipment, baby products and kitchen utensils. For the sharp nails, a flexible, semi-transparent material is used, making it difficult to break.
